

Center for Latin American, Caribbean & Latino Studies

INDIGENOUS MIGRATION FROM LATIN AMERICA WORKSHOP SERIES

Indigenous Mobilities: Race, Place, and Exclusion among Undocumented Maya Migrants in the United States

Dr. Deanna Barenboim, Sarah Lawrence College
Invited Speaker

Indigenous Migration Workshop Series
March 2, 6-8pm
The Graduate Center, CUNY
365 Fifth Avenue, btw 34 y 35, NYC
Room 8103

Workshop Organizers: Victoria Stone-Cadena and Charlie Uruchima
Cosponsored by Kichwa Hatari NY & GC Immigration Working Group.

Deanna Barenboim is a sociocultural anthropologist and faculty member in the Department of Anthropology at Sarah Lawrence College, where she has taught since 2009. Over the past decade, she has conducted ethnographic research with Maya migrants from Yucatán, Mexico who represent a new wave of Indigenous transnational migration between Latin America and the United States. Prof. Barenboim's research explores linkages between transborder migration and mobilities, socio-legal inequalities, and emergent forms of political and ethnic identity.

KICHIWA
HATARI.ORG

